For the exam the students (besides their course notes) have to study:

- "Introduzione" of Giacalone Ramat (1986),
- Chini (2005),
- one chap. in Banfi (1993) concerning the language studied (Italian, German, French, English as an L2),
- Valentini (2005),
- one paper in Giacalone Ramat (1986) or in the "parte III" of Consani et al. (2009) or one chap. of Bettoni (2001), of Klein (1986) or of Dulay et al. (1982/1985).

Students not attending the course have to add another article chosen from a list.

Assessment methods

There will be an oral exam about the contents and the terminology of the course. The student must also prove that he/she has learned how to interpret interlanguage data.

The programme of the exam for foreign students can be at least partially adapted and some readings in other languages can substitute readings in Italian, with the teacher's agreement.
