Learning outcomes	The course focuses on crisis and emergency risk communication with reference to the National service of civil protection in Italy. The first part of the course is an introduction that deals with the main features of the Italian constitutional system and its institutional design. The second part of the course is devoted to the National service of civil protection: organization, activities and tolls to inform and communicate. In this part the students learn civil protection is not a task assigned to a sole administration, but is a function belonging to a complex system. This system must inform and communicate in time of peace or in the event of major natural, technological and radiological disasters to ensure better protection of people, the environment, property and cultural heritage in emergency situations. Finally, the last part of the course is devoted to civil protection and social media.

Two are the main goals of the course: 1) to provide students with a basic knowledge and understanding of the main framework of the public law and the National protection civil service; 2) to provide the tools required for understanding the communication in the risk. After a general introduction to some fundamental concepts of the discipline, the students will be stimulated on some practical experiences in order to widen their practical knowledge of the subject too.
